SPICES & FOODS

About Us

'Clapping your eyes on a pinch of good spice' in your morning tea can prep up your day. India in its lush green is a flourishing land of authentic spices. Used in the sterling masala-chai to the well-publicized Mexican seasoning, Indian spices are used to brew and sizzle the most flavoursome vintage cuisines. Quality Indian spices are key to a culinary artist and finding the most distinguished Indian spice ingredients can be a tricky affair. Jay Masala, native to the spice-laden south-west region of the Indian Peninsula, has evolved as the most sought-after spice exporters in India, and have emerged as the most trusted name in the field of spice exporters. JayMasala is the leading, second-to-none spices manufacturers in India, with an experience that goes beyond 25 years of catering to the requirements of world-class spices for their customers worldwide!

As global leaders in Indian spice production, Jay Masala brings to you a wide array of authentic Indian spices which are storehouses of potent natural metabolic boosters. Our appetizing and fully-flavoured spices are graded and processed with state-of-the-art technologies, packaged with hygienic and globally-accredited standards, and reach your doorstep and kitchen cabinets laden with flavour, quality, and science-backed benefits.

Jay food products that range from rice and wheat products such as 'Puttu', 'Idiyappam', and 'Palappam' (native to Kerala), that serve the local and the international crowd have gained popularity over the years, and are known to empty the local and international store racks in no time. Jay Instant foods like the instant 'puttu' flour, 'instant idly mix', 'instant dosa flour', and so on have a mounting demand each day. In conjunction with Jay spices, masalas, and instant foods, the brand also focusses on providing the best-quality oils by their fully-fledged in-house R&D Team of food and spice experts. The oils include coconut, sesame, groundnut, and mustard. Additionally, the brand has a specialist team crafting the finest oleoresins, spice oils, pickles, chutneys, jams, beverages, pulses, lentils, chips, snacks, and other general products.

Jay Spices and Food Products are known for their authenticity, flavour, and quality, which forms the three key foundation pillars!

SPICES

The Indian spice box is laden with potent aromatic and pungent-flavoured spices that add colour, taste, and flavour to cuisines. A spice is defined by genuine descriptions as seeds, fruits, roots, barks, or other plant substances used for flavouring food. These spices are of vegetable origin and possess strong aromatic qualities. From the herbaceous black peppercorn, the nutty cumins, and the crackling Jeeras to the sweet-tasting cinnamon and coriander of the parsley origin, Indian cuisines are unimaginable without these spices. With an experience of over close to three decades in spice production from the land known for its vast array of the most sought-after spices, Jay Spices have emerged as the second-to-none spice exporter in India that is popular among the Indians, GCC countries, and others living overseas.

MASALAS

A quick whizz around a masala box from any Indian kitchen is not just rich aromatic flavours but is loaded with healthy healing properties that were once used in the ancient times to cure diseases to the present digital era in crafting crucial essential oils to oleoresins. Jay Masalas offers the finest and high-quality curry powders by ensuring quality in manufacturing and blending flavours to aromatic retention. Jay Masalas ensure that their masalas are Micro-cool processed and reach their customers in Aroma retention packs. Jay Masalas offer the finest of masalas and curry mixes across the nation and providers export-quality products at the most affordable prices.

BREAKFAST PRODUCTS

Whole grains have been a staple diet of humans since ages. Known for a multitude of health benefits such as reduction of heart risks, diabetes, and blood pressure when consumed in appropriate quantities and a balanced healthy lifestyle with moderate physical activities, wheat and rice have many other science-backed benefits, as well. These whole grains are derived from the seeds of grass-like plants named cereals and can be rolled, crushed, and cracked to give you different forms of dishes on your supper table. These whole-grain kernels include three parts namely the bran that is the outer shell that is rich in fibre, minerals, and anti-oxidants. The second and the third parts being the endosperm consisting of carbs, and the germ that contributes vitamins, minerals, protein, and plant compounds.

Teaming the benefits of wheat and rice and the safe and nutrient-rich processing and packaging techniques, Jay wheat and rice products are the most craved for food products overseas. All Jay food products are processed and manufactured safely without eliminating any nutrients, proteins, and other minerals from the wholegrains by advanced machinery and second-to-none techniques. Automated packaging and stringent quality tests underwent while maintaining a traditional processing system have made Jay rice and wheat products even more notable and outstanding.

OILS

Splash, pour, drizzle, or spurt! - Jay oils are popular in India and overseas for the wide array of oils from coconut, sesame, mustard, and groundnut to sunflower and palm oils. Used in kitchen and beauty tables, as well, oils provide a whole lot of benefits for health, taste, and beauty, along with medicinal benefits. Low in saturated fats and rich in minerals, Jay oils are extracted and processed without cancelling any of its natural ingredients using hygienic and automated methods. The benefits of these oils not only stand inside the kitchen but spread over to haircare, improved digestion, beauty, weight control mechanisms, and many more!

OLEORESINS AND SPICE ESSENTIAL OILS

The flavour and food industry is incomplete without oleoresins and spice oils. Oleoresins that are produced from plant sources such as fruits, roots, seeds, and rhizomes, can be described as a concentrated form of spices and herbs. Examples of popular oleoresins are paprika (fruit), turmeric (rhizome), black pepper (seeds), and ginger (rhizome). These are non-volatile and is used extensively in meat preparations, marinades and gourmet food. Spice essential oils, on the other hand, are plant parts that are steam distilled.

Jay oleoresins and spice essential oils are known for their intact and sealed flavour and aroma in preparing cuisines. From hygienic cleaning and grinding processes, followed by careful extraction using state-of-the-art methods that involve steam distillation processes with appropriate solvents, blended, and packaged perfectly. The Research and Development team housed by Jay products are world-class specialists in maintaining high-quality standards in Spice oil extraction techniques.
